

A Lifetime of Learning

Accreditation

The University of Colorado at Denver and Health Sciences Center is institutionally accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools:
30 North LaSalle Street, Suite 2400
Chicago, IL 60602-2504
1-800-621-7440
www.ncahigherlearningcommission.org

Many professional organizations have also granted accreditation to programs, schools, and colleges at the downtown Denver campus of UCDHSC. They include the following: Accrediting Commission on Education for Health Services Administration • Association for the Advancement of Collegiate Schools of Business, International • American Chemical Society • Colorado State Board of Education • Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs • Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology • Landscape Architecture Accreditation Board • National Architectural Accrediting Board • National Association of Schools of Music • National Accreditation of School Psychologists • National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration • National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education • Planning Accreditation Board

You can obtain information about our degrees by contacting us:

Mailing Address

UCDHSC Office of Admissions
Campus Box 167, P.O. Box 173364
Denver, Colorado 80217-3364

Location

1200 Larimer Street or 1250 14th Street Annex
303-556-2704

Web Site

www.cudenver.edu

Higher education today is more important than ever before. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that jobs requiring higher education will grow by 22 percent between 2002 and 2012, nearly double the rate of non-college jobs.

As the United States has moved from an industrial economy to a knowledge-based economy, higher education has emerged as the premier system for preparing the highly skilled workers our nation requires.

In the transition to the knowledge economy, general reasoning, problem solving, and interpersonal skills have all become more important because most new positions are being created in education, health care, and office settings, where there are higher levels of human interaction. As technology takes over more of the manual processing tasks, employees spend more time interacting with each other to effectively manage the new technologies. Most employers know the skills you get with a liberal arts degree make you an attractive and flexible employee.

Solid cognitive and applied skills are also needed to complement those general liberal arts abilities. As jobs change and requirements increase, workers need to learn new tasks and apply what they already know in new ways. At the same time, workers also need occupational and professional competencies that provide the applied skills to get the job done.

The University of Colorado at Denver and Health Sciences Center is well positioned to provide the education and skills you need to succeed in the knowledge economy.

The strength and prestige of the University of Colorado degree is known worldwide, and graduates of the University of Colorado at Denver and Health Sciences Center have become leaders in corporations, institutions, governments, and organizations.

Our faculty excel in crafting their instruction around issues of contemporary life as well as traditional disciplines. They are alert to the challenges and opportunities of the urban environment and responsive to the needs of our students and community. The combination of our talented faculty and highly motivated students creates an exciting educational environment, combining real-world experience with academic excellence.

Downtown Denver offers myriad opportunities for students to round out their classroom experiences. Cultural opportunities abound, with a nationally recognized performing arts center and museums just steps away from campus. City, state, and federal government centers are just blocks from campus. Located at the hub of Colorado's professional sports industry, the campus is within walking distance of the Pepsi Center, Invesco Field, and Coors Field. The downtown Denver campus is easily accessible from any part of the metro area, via expanded highways and a comprehensive light rail and city bus system.

At UCDHSC, we'll provide you with challenges and opportunities that will enhance your future and prepare you for a lifetime of learning.